Words from Pastor Bruce

The leaves are nearly gone and those that remain are only a washed out version of their more colorful cousins. The days are getting shorter and hints that winter is coming are getting more numerous. We have been through these times before and recognize that this is just part of the cycle of nature. The unfortunate thing is that the anticipated harvest is delayed with the untimely rains. The satisfaction of having the harvest completed and the fields prepared for winter has also been delayed. Restlessness can easily replace a sense of satisfaction. Anxiety can displace peace. Few people who have never farmed are aware of the unique stressors placed upon the 2 percent of the population that work the land. The independence that many urban people envy about the life of farmers comes with a great price, as we see again this fall.

Farmers do not live with the illusion of being in control of their own destinies. They do not live their lives with the false sense that most others do, that they can live life according to their own terms. It is no mystery why farmers tend to pray more and worship more regularly than city folk. They recognize their need for divine support and the need to cultivate their relationship with God.

Concordia Lutheran was founded by those who were keenly aware of their need for a gracious God and were willing to invest their scarce resources to build a church and to call their first pastor. While much has changed in the century that has passed since Concordia was founded, there is one constant, one thing we of which we can be certain: God is there for us and continues to sustain and strengthen us every time we gather around Word and Sacrament. If life seems uncertain, I invite you to come to the one place we can experience the one thing that does not change: God's ongoing mercy and love for us.

*God Bless,
Pastor Bruce*

Ole and Sven

From the Sons of Norway-Kringen Lodge Newsletter, August 2009

Reverend Ole is the pastor of the local Norwegian Lutheran Church and Pastor Sven is the minister of the Swedish Covenant Church across the road. One day they were seen pounding a sign into the ground, that said: DA END ISS NEAR! TURN YERSELF AROUND BAFORE IT'S TOO LATE!

As a car sped past them, the driver leaned out his window and yelled, "Leave me alone, you Skandihoovian religious nuts!" From the curve they heard screeching tires and a big splash... Rev Ole turns to Pastor Sven and asks, "Do ya think maybe da sign should yust say, Bridge Out?"

Concordia Cemetery Association

We have several grave markers and monuments that are in need of repair. Some are close to tipping over and have become a safety concern. The policy of the Cemetery association is that each family is responsible for the monument or markers that have been installed in the cemetery. Several monuments belong to families that are no longer living in the area, or no surviving family members living. The Board has identified several that need a new foundation or only need to be re-leveled. The cost of the entire project is about $1300. If you recognize some of the family stones that need repair and you would like to be part of this rebuilding program, any contribution would be appreciated.

Here is a listing of some of the markers that have been identified for repair:

A Young Man Explains Jesus...

“His dad (God) appreciated everything that he had done and all his hard work on earth so he told him he didn't have to go out on the road anymore. He could stay in heaven.

So he did. And now he helps his dad out by listening to prayers and seeing things which are important for God to take care of and which ones he can take care of himself without having to bother God. Like a secretary, only more important.”

Bits and Pieces

The Journey to the Buffalo

Levi Thortvedt wrote the story of his family's journey from Houston County in southeastern Minnesota to what became the "Buffalo River Settlement" in Clay County as a serial for the Moorhead Daily News in 1938. This month we'll join them on the third day of the journey: Saturday, May 21, 1870.

We were informed by a generous fellow that there was a good camping place two miles west of Rochester on a high knoll. In the evening when the campfires were going for the supper cooking, the lively sound of a violin was heard. It was Tarjei Muhle sitting on the wagon pole playing waltzes, polkas, and cotillions. This little stunt made me feel good and enthusiastic and livened up the whole party for that matter. We had our usual supper consisting of sweet milk mush and milk.

Sunday we didn't move on, as the sheep and cattle needed rest and to fill up good on grass. Some of the boys went down to Rochester, only two miles away, to spend part of the day. I will never forget this camping place where we could see for miles, especially to the east and to the south.

You Can't Tell A Vet Just By Looking

He is the cop on the beat who spent six months in Saudi Arabia sweating two gallons a day making sure the armored personnel carrier didn't run out of fuel.

He is the barroom loudmouth whose behavior is outweighed in the cosmic scales by four hours of unparalleled bravery near the 38th Parallel in Korea.

She is the nurse who fought against futility in Da Nang and went to sleep sobbing every night for two solid years.

He is the POW who left one person and came back another.

He is the drill instructor who has never been in combat, but has saved countless lives by turning no-accounts into Marines.

He is the parade-riding legionnaire who pins on his ribbons and medals with a prosthetic hand.

He is the white-haired guy bagging groceries at the supermarket, aggravatingly slow, who helped liberate a Nazi death camp.

A vet is an ordinary and extraordinary human being — someone who offered his life's vital years in the service of his country.

He is a soldier and a savior and a sword against the darkness, and nothing more than the finest, greatest testimony on behalf of the finest, greatest nation ever known. We will never be able to repay the debt of gratitude we owe.

A Brief History of Veteran's Day

November 11th was originally called "Armistice Day" and it commemorated the end of World War I at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918.

In 1954, after both World War II and the Korean War, it was decided that the date should include all veterans, and the name of the holiday was changed to "Veteran's Day."

In 1968, a law was passed to make sure most holidays created 3-day week-ends. Because of the history and meaning of November 11th, the holiday was returned to its actual date in 1978 and has been celebrated on that date, wherever it falls during the week, ever since.

The difference between Memorial Day and Veteran's Day? Memorial Day honors those who died in service to their country or as a result of injuries incurred during battle. It has become common for all deceased veterans to be recognized on Memorial Day. Veteran's Day is set aside to thank and honor all veterans, especially those still living, who served honorably in the military during times of both war and peace.
